In
Very tender recollection of
The old Plantation, near
Marion, Alabama,
Where Thomas H. Moore
Nashville Tennessee.

The Old Cotton Gin

It lies alone where the old road leads Through the lush young corn and the wayside weeds

The June wind sings
a song in its throat
The June clouds lovingly over it float

And through its skeleton ribs of steel
The moth-flies dance in a drowsy reel

For its saws are crvst·
With canker and rvst·
Their song is the silence· ·of lips in dvst·

And the lizard is ginner
And out and in The spider is spinner
At the Old Cotton Gin

And the lizard is ginner

Aye many a day for the old old South He loosed his lint from a fiery mouth

Girdling·the·earth·and· ·its·vnclothed·bars·
Like·the·fleece-lined·path· ·through·the·golden·stars·

And he stood in his strength this fallen thing
A hoary monarch
an uncrowned king

And over the land
With an iron hand
He flung his wealth with a gesture grand

And Might was the ginner
Of barn and of bin
There was never a winner
Like the Old Cotton Gin

For the old old South

Broad was the kingdom
he ruled in his might Brave were the armies
he rallied for fight

And Pride was the ginner.
(Unpardonable sin.)
Was there ever a sinner.
Like the Old Cotton Gin?

Free-song-and-slave-song-would-mingle-and-flow-

Alas for his weavings
aye tears for the day When out from his loom came the jackets of gray

And the locks that were plucked in despair from his head Were woven to crimson in shrouds for his dead

They died for the Sin
the centuries had given And their blood is the pledge on the lintels of heaven

By river and plain
They march not again
And wet was his fleece with the blood of his slain

·ginner·
C.H. Sykes

He buried his dead
and a tenderer tone Crept into his song
for he sang it alone

But he wove as he sang and the pattern was bright The tapestry of stars that come with the night

And he built his waste places and conquered by toil And garnered in peace
what was squandered in spoil

443977

And all the day long
He wove in his song
The patience of right in the pillage of wrong

And Faith was the ginner
The fabric to spin
And Hope was the spinner
At the Old Cotton Gin

And conqvered
by toil

His hope in the future
his heart in the past He worked for his people and loomed to the last

And tottering he stood through the rift and the reel And died as he lived with his hand on the wheel

And sighing his soul passed peacefully through As pure as the last look of flint in the flue.

But the heart whose beat
Was the Century's feet Stopped not to Death
nor died in defeat

And a New South was ginner.
A New Age was in.
A New Century spinner.
A New Cotton Gin.
